

To FCC and Congress representatives,

I am writing to you regarding Proceeding 04-233. While I understand the need to regulate the material that goes across our radio airways, I also recognize the importance of the principles that our nation has at its core. Our foundational principles, clearly displayed in our Constitution and its amendments, are there to make sure that none of us are suppressed and that our views are not snuffed out. This proceeding would open the door for these possibilities and I believe that it is a step in the wrong direction.

Everyone that listens to the radio has a choice today of the stations they listen to and can choose to listen only to those that suits them. It is preposterous to think that our government, or anyone, should put boundaries and limits on those choices. I would think that there are many more items for the FCC and Congress to focus their efforts on than ones that clearly violate rights, create dissention within our nation, and serve to split our country.

These are just a few of the reasons that I oppose Proceeding 04-233. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Mike Robinson
